

ENGLISH LANGUAGE TRANSCRIPT

SDG 13 Nanocourse – Introduction Video

Disclaimer: English transcripts follow how people actually speak. This means, not all sentence structure, punctuation or grammar tracks exactly with perfect, textbook English. This is a guide meant to help increase understanding of spoken English word patterns, which can vary according to the speaker.

- 00:10: Hello my name is Larissa and I am the curriculum officer and the instructor of this nanocourse, which will quickly build your knowledge on the Sustainable Development Goal 13: Taking urgent action to combat climate change and its impact, or Climate Action for short.
- 00:29: This course will have three one-hour long lessons. In the first lesson you'll be able to receive a global understanding on the causes of climate change, its consequences and unequal social and economic impact.
- 00:42: In the second lesson you'll have the opportunity to self-reflect on your values and your attitudes, as well as your behavior in climate change and climate action, particularly referring to the reality you're living in – your country, your community, your continent.
- 01:01: And lastly, in lesson three, you will build a simple plan of action to start combatting climate change and start taking climate action in your local community.
- 01:13: SDG 13 requires, as is stated in its name, urgent action and there are many solutions already built. This is a class for changemakers, and I hope that together you and I can start taking climate action right now.